Honestly a great game with a great relaunch. Players complain about balance issues and I get it, I have my fair share of annoyances sometimes but it's still fun overall. Especially with the Terminator T-800 DLC. Makes it an even better experience if you're a fan of that.

Hopefully the game lasts quite a while.. I absolutely ADORE Tequila Works. And they deliver yet again with The Invisible Hours.

They tell a story that only they can tell.

Being able to freely explore the mansion, things will happen whether you are watching it or not. The challenge is to follow the right person, and fully exploring where they were, and when.

It's a fully unique experience, and I love it.. More or less megaman, but it's a good game with some interesting weapons and upgrades and 2 differnt heros that have differnt weapons and playstyles.. Slow and steady artist and energetic young jade are a good. Princess Loot Pixel Again is a very simple game - but that doesn't mean it isn't fun.

At it's core, it's a simple action/platformer game where the dungeon changes and your character resets every time you die, which is often enough. Still, you lose so little, and the game is so short (maybe 20 minutes from start to a successful end), it doesn't feel like you lose much.

One problem I have is that it feels like any playthrough is determined directly by the special items I find in the first few levels. Sure, there's still skill involved and you could beat the game with none - but when your game starts with four special powers the play is so much visibly easier than otherwise that it's almost not worth continuing if your first few levels don't have anything.

All in all, I liked it. I'm working on beating it with the last few characters, and it was totally worth the price.. Super cool game, I personally hope they add more stories. More of a time management game than anything else, but great.

A note to every lame dev wannabe out there: if you can't make as much as basic sound and video options in your "game" - you are a dumb sucker and your "game" is total crap.. the perfect bride to the main game. It's pretty good for the price. Fun game, a little like Space Rangers with a little star control 2 mixed in.. I've only played one game but I already like the concept. But I do have to say, "Oh, my aching neck!"
Having to look up for so long a period of time really does create alot of strain on the neck.
Thank goodness for heating pads, cuz I really needed one!

Since seeing the film Pixels, I always wondered what it would be like to play Centipede or Millipede just like in the movie,
Now I know.
Good visuals, music and fun power-ups.
Really kept me moving around, so that was a plus for me.
I'm hoping future updates will tackle the present need to have to constantly look up. All that neck strain would certainly put a damper on my gameplay.

Spinoff DLC for Niplheim's Hunter was banned & other news:

Hello, the publisher, HappyHand here.

I have some good and bad news. The good news is that the developer and I decided to make the DLC free, some people said the price is fine and some said it's too high or way too high, but we decided to make it free as a thank you for all the support!

The bad news is that Steam banned the DLC because:

After review, we will not be able to ship your DLC Branded Azel - Lust Brand Prostitute on Steam. While we strive to ship most titles submitted to us, we found that this title features themes, imagery or descriptions that we won't distribute.

Regardless of a developer's intentions with their product, we will not distribute content that appears, in our judgment, to trade in the prurient representation or exploitation of minors.

While every product submitted is unique, if your product features this representation -- even in a subtle way that could be defined as a "grey area" -- it will be rejected by Steam.

We are not interested in working with partners that dance around the edges of what's legal. For instance, setting your game in a high-school but declaring your characters are of legal age would fall into that category and be banned.

This app has been banned and cannot be reused.

I sent Steam a support ticket asking why they would ban the game when they told me they would give me feedback and guidance about content that they will not allow, hopefully they will reply back soon and I will get the DLC unbanned, but I'm extremely sorry about this, I thought Steam would at least let me know what's wrong with the game instead of just banning it without any guidance/discussion. Let's hope this was just a mistake on their part and it will be solved soon. In case I can't solve the ban in the support ticket, I'll ask if someone could visit Valve HQ to ask what's up or I'll visit them myself if I have to, but let's hope this will get solved soon.

I do have some other news:

Cards & Achievements are done and I'll release them soon!

I was supposed to release them together with the DLC, but I guess that's not going to happen very soon, so I'll just release them on their own. I'll make an announcement when they are released.

Chinese translation is nearly done!

It should be ready this week or early next week and I'll make an announcement when it's out!

I will also start hiring translators for other languages very soon!

The reason why the Chinese translation was already started is because the developer wanted it as soon as possible and I had very limited funds so I couldn't hire other translators until now.

I'll release 4 more games as soon as I can!

I have 4 more upcoming games, I'll post information about them as soon as I have them ready and this DLC situation is solved.

Sorry about the slow progress, things should speed up now and I'll post more announcements from now on.

Thank you for all the support and I hope you'll get to enjoy the spinoff DLC for Niplheim's hunter soon!. No contact from Steam so the game is delayed until further notice.:

Hello, HappyHand here, I have some sad news for everyone.

Steam hasn't given me any response on why the review is taking so long and what the problem with the game is, if there even is a problem. I tried sending emails to several different Valve employees, asked in Steamworks group, sent a support ticket and asked if they could just give me an estimate when they are done or if there's anything that I could say to you guys. I haven't received any response for more than a week from anyone, so sadly, the game is delayed until further notice for unknown reasons.

I'm extremely sorry about this, but there is nothing else I can do since Steam just won't contact me or even give me some date or information I could give you so this is all I can say. I waited until now hoping that Steam would at least give me some kind of confirmation I could give to you, but there's nothing from Steam and, again, I'm extremely sorry about delaying the game again and not being able to explain the reason or even the length of the delay to all the fans and customers waiting for the game and I'm sorry for waiting until now to inform you, I just hoped Steam would give even some sort of reply. I'm so sorry.

There have been other developers/publishers that had their game delayed too or even banned from Steam. Here is a video that explains why they were delayed or banned, the video is 10 minutes long, with the first 4 and half being about Sony's recent censorship issues and the rest is about this exact situation I seem to be in:

<https://youtu.be/x3JL6wPuhhE?t=265>

So it's possible Steam is just stringing me along, delaying the release because of rogue employee(s) or that someone in Steam is actually using "We do not allow exploitation/sexualization of children in games that are in Steam" as an excuse, so Steam is basically exploiting laws/rules set to protect children because of personal agendas and that is unforgivable.

Like other games in the video, Niplheim's Hunter does not have any children in it and all characters are bunch of the pixels on the screen representing fiction, but Steam, or some people in steam, might be using the above rule as an excuse to ban games with eastern/anime style art, which is outright racist towards Japanese developers and a terrible thing to do towards the hardworking creators that create these games so fans could enjoy them.

Maybe Steam doesn't want eastern/anime styled games in their store, I will respect their decision and publish the game elsewhere, but there are hardcore games like Meltys Quest and Makina published in Steam and some games, that don't even any sex are banned, so I don't know what is going on in Steam or what I should do.

I'm sorry for asking this, but if you could spread the above video around and tell more people about this whole situation in Steam, maybe Valve will check what is going on. Until then, the game is delayed and who knows what Steam will start banning next, because they won't tell and are extremely inconsistent with the bans and rules they themselves set.

I'm sorry about the long post and I'm sorry for burdening you by asking to spread the word and most of all, I'm sorry for not being able to release the game in time and having to delay it again, this time until further notice. The game might not ever see a Steam release at this rate, but please, to prevent more situations like this, please spread the word.

Thank you for reading and I'm sorry I failed to deliver the game in time.

HappyHand

*Dec 12 edit: The developer and I decided to change the release date to "Earliest possible release: Dec 17, 2018" since the developer has a hard time believing when I said that the game is stuck in review and Steam won't contact me so the game's delayed until further review. The "Earliest possible release" said Dec 16 yesterday and it will probably say Dec 18 tomorrow and the date will keep going further away until the review is over. This is just to prove to the developer that Steam is actually not contacting me and the game is stuck.

I understand where he's coming from since I still can't believe this is happening either, but that's the reason for changing the date, I will most likely change it again, very sorry about the confusion and this whole situation.. Niplheim's Hunter will be released on Monday, January 7!:

Steam contacted me and said there has been a misunderstanding on their part and there's no problem with shipping Niplheim's Hunter on Steam!

I asked if they could explain in detail how this whole thing happened and why it took so long to solve, but right now, I'm overjoyed that I can finally release Niplheim's Hunter on Steam so the answers can wait!

If it's not too much trouble, please tell all your friends that Niplheim's Hunter is finally coming to Steam!

I want to thank all of you for all the support and advice you gave me and I hope everyone will have fun playing Niplheim's Hunter next Monday!

Edit: Nothing has been removed and the game is the same build every other store uses after you install the free DLC.

Edit 2: The game will have the 30% off launch discount for one week!

Thank you so much for everything,
HappyHand. The game is now out with a 30% off Launch Discount!:
The game is now out!

You are free to make any kind of review for the game you want, but if you could answer any questions in here when you write the review, it would help me give better service and information to you! For example, I can add support for other languages if there's a high demand for them!

Of course it all depends on the sales/profits, but I'll do my best to add things if a lot of people request them so make sure to mention things you would like in reviews, comments or in discussions.

Feel free to ask questions here or you can make a new discussion in the community hub too if you want!

I hope you have fun playing Niplheim's Hunter!. Release Date, Price and Launch Discount:

Hello, this is HappyHand, the publisher.

Due to Steam review taking a while longer, I will have to delay the release date to 7th of December. If the review isn't over at that point, I might have to delay it further, but I will do my best so you will be able to play the game as soon as possible and I apologize for the delay.

The price for the game has been decided and the final price is 19.99$ / 17.50€.

To celebrate the game's launch and as an apology for the delay and price change, I decided to add a 30% off Launch Discount for the first week of the game!

I hope you will have fun playing Niplheim's Hunter and I hope you have a nice day!

Best Regards,
HappyHand
